DARING ESCAPE OF PRISONERS.

GENEVA, ILL., June 25.—A 6 o'clock p. m. the prisoners here broke jail. Two of them escaped—one from Elgin, the other from Aurora, for burglary. Rachel Westgarth, the housekeeper, was by their solicitation, bringing them a pail of water. They immediately seized her and threw her down, pressing heavily on her chest and choking her at the same time. They then drew her into the wash-room and tied a cloth over her head, almost suffocating her. She soon removed the cloth from her head and gave the alarm, which brought the prisoners back. They then opened the last door in the wash-room and threatened to throw her in if she did not keep quiet, which she did. They then fled.

WOODS DALE PAPER MILL BURNED.
HAMILTON, O., June 25.—Word reached this city at 7 o'clock last night by telephone, informing our citizens that the Woodsdale Paper Mill was on fire, and praying for help from our fire department. Chief Engineer Ritchie engaged a special train and notified the noble boys of the Ones to board her for Busenbark's Station. At twelve minutes to eight everything was ready and the drive-wheels of engine No. 33, which was manned by Engineer Peter J. Woertendyke, started on their rapid transit, carrying the engine and hose-reel and a small company of firemen, besides your correspondent of the Star.

We made the run to Busenbark's in twelve minutes and forty-five seconds, but it was nearly 9 o'clock before water was thrown. The fire was discovered in the tag-room at a quarter to 7 o'clock by John Ritz, but it is not known how it originated. The mill was provided with a sixty-horsepower Holly Engine, but their hose burst and it rendered no service.

Fearing that the large boilers might explode the engineer blew off the steam, which made such a noise that no one dare go near the mill till the flames had got beyond control, and the extensive structure was entirely destroyed. They manufactured all kinds of paper and had a capacity of five thousand pounds of super-calendered paper per day.

Six water-wheels furnished power for the mill, but they had lately put in a large Corliss engine with one hundred and fifty horse power to use in case of emergency. It is acknowledged that this establishment was one of the finest in the Miami Valley, and was furnished throughout with the very best of machinery, and required a force of eighty men to run it.

The mill was built by Samuel Aunberger and Fred. and Chris. Kinsinger in 1856, and was first used as a flour mill. In 1863 it was sold to the Becke & Paper Company, and was afterwards changed to the Woodsdale Paper Company. The original cost of this structure was $122,000.

The present stockholders of the company are: Jacob B. Aunberger, D. W. McIlwain, Wm. Beckett, Chatfield & Woods, and Wilson, Hinkle & Co. The loss is estimated at from fifty to sixty thousand dollars and is partly covered by insurance as follows:

North British, $2,500; Phoenix, $2,500; Miami Valley, of Cincinnati, $2,500; Lancashire, $2,500; Toledo, $1,000; German American, of New York, $2,500; Firemen Fund, of California, $2,500; The People's, of Trenton, N. J., $1,500; Rochester, $1,500; Western, of California, $2,000; the Queen, of Liverpool, $1,500; Merchants' and Mechanics', $1,500; Hartford, $2,500; Fire Association, $2,500; People's, of Newark, $1,000; Franklin, $2,000; Merchants' and Mechanics', $2,000; St. Paul, of Minnesota, $2,000; Lloyds, of New York, $1,000; Newark, of New Jersey, $1,500. ## Miller's Exhibition.

The test of Reynolds and the Harris engines has been completed, and the experts began their work upon the Wheelock this morning, but before the engine had been running many minutes the packing at the connection of the main steam pipe and the branch pipe that led to the engine blew out and caused a delay of two hours.

Considerable noise was made by this accident and the people began to run for the doors, thinking that another steam-pipe explosion had taken place, but the steam was soon shut off and no damage done. The engine test may close to-morrow night, inasmuch as the foundation of the Buckeye engine has settled so that it will be impossible to test it correctly and it is intimated that the Brown engine will be withdrawn from the contest.

NEWSPERS.

Rev. W. H. Meisse, of Cincinnati, will preach Sunday morning at the Grace M. E. Church.

MISSING.—John Williams, of No. 11 Lewist street, is mysteriously missing. He left his home two days ago to hire a skiff, which he procured from one of the boat-houses on the Ohio River. The boat has never been returned, and the supposition is that he has met with a watery grave.

WATER WORKS.—The Board of Water Works met last night. Claims to the amount of $956 were allowed. The contract for furnishing 12,000 bushels of coal was awarded to G. Harting at his bid of 8 cents a bushel. The report of the Special Committee of Council was read and tabled.

Rev. Mr. Mullen returned this morning from Greencastle, Ind., where he was in attendance at the commencement exercises of the Asbury University of which he is one of the Board of Directors. He says three of the four Japanese students at the University have embraced Christianity, and the latter, who is quite young in years, carried off the Latin prize.

Eliza C. Morton to Martin Zeiger, Lots 41 and 42 in Taylor's Addition, of 45 feet each on Madison street, 45 feet south of Monmouth street by 55 deep; $2,250.

MAYOR'S COURT.—The case of Biney Welsh, charged with grand larceny, was called this morning when the County Attorney ordered his dismissal. The Court—Do I understand Mr. Edger to move the dismissal of the prisoner before evidence is heard? The County Attorney, after a lengthy pause, concluded that the witnesses be examined, which resulted in Welsh being bound over to the Criminal Court in $200, to answer the charge of grand larceny.

GRADUATING EXERCISES.—Perhaps the largest audience that ever assembled at Grace Church was present last night on the occasion of the graduating exercises of the Newport High School. No more suitable place could have been selected for such a large gathering—it being roomy, easy of access and well seated. This however did not prevent considerable comment on the part of a number of the parents who do not attend this church, and who would have preferred to have the exercises at Odd-fellows' Hall, the place first named. The Church, however, was much cooler and in other respects better adapted. The Chancel was a bower of the choicest green-house plants and sweet-scented flowers, all tastefully arranged, and in pleasant contrast with the charming faces of the six young lady graduates, all neatly attired in the purest white, and presenting a tableau of splendor well worth remembering.

The exercises opened with prayer by the Rev. Mr. Shott, of the First Baptist Church. Then followed the programme, which was rendered in a manner highly creditable to the youthful graduates and their teachers, and certainly very pleasing to the parents and friends of the pupils. Paul F. Walker was the only male graduate, but without the least embarrassment among so many pretty young misses, he was fully equal to the occasion, and came in for his full share of the applause. He read his essay, "John Chinaman," like a little man, and his conclusion was congratulated by the President and received a shower of bouquets from the audience. Of the young lady graduates it would be rather difficult to single out any one more deserving of special note than the other, but judging from the applause in which Miss Anna M. Knox, Miss Hattie E. Bodley and Miss Myrtle Bryan were received, they must have been special favorites. Miss Bryan's solo was unusually well rendered and as well received.

To Miss E. Josie Thomas fell the difficult task of reading the valedictory, which she filled in an admirable style, and her parting with comrades and teachers was very touching. Following was the programme: The God of Israel—(Rosini)—High School. Prayer—"Launched," Edith N. Venables. Essay—"Sleep," E. Josie Thomas. Song—"Come with Song"—(Offenbach)—High School.

Essay—"Music," Mary L. Stapleton. Essay—"John Chinaman," Paul F. Walker. Aurora, Solo and Chorus—(Rise)—High School. Essay—"Curiosity," Lizzie G. Locke.

Essay—"Do We Ever Forget?" Anna M. Knox. Away, the Morning Freshly Breaking—(Auber)—High School.

Valedictory—"The Nineteenth Century," Hattie E. Bodley.

At the conclusion of the exercises, Mr. Waters, President of the School Board, addressed the graduates in a touching and pleasant little speech, and then turning to the Superintendent, Mr. Wilde, and the members of the Board of Education, and paid them a high compliment for the high order of merit the public schools of Newport have attained in the past two years.

The attendance at St. Joseph's School festival last night was larger than the opening, and it is expected that there will be a general turnout this evening. The triple clog dance by James M. Murphy, Will E. Krug and Thomas F. Duffey, with orchestra accompaniment, was excellent, and was loudly applauded by the spectators.

At a late hour last night a man named Wm. Brown walked into the canal near the Main-street bridge, and would undoubtedly have drowned had it not been for the timely assistance of some parties who heard him and rescued him. When taken out he was in a state of asphyxia, and it was with great difficulty that he could be resuscitated.

The Sisters in charge of the St. Elizabeth Hospital were made the happy recipients of an abundance of groceries, provisions, etc., yesterday afternoon by the boys from the parish of St. Mary's Church. They marched into the yard under the control of their pastor, Rev. Father Stuckenberg, and were received by the Sister Superior, when each one deposited his gift for the Sisters of the Poor and retired to the "Grotto," where services were held, and were then taken through the hospital.

Yesterday morning a serious runaway took place on Fourth and Jefferson streets. The horse belonged to Joseph Seligstein, a berry peddler. He took flight at a wheel coming off of the wagon to which he was attached. Rinsing up Jefferson street it collided with another vehicle in front of the City Building, throwing the driver out and causing the horses attached to their coach to start to run, but they were prevented from doing so by the timely interference of the roundsman. The berry men lost a great many berries, but otherwise the loss was trifling.

her residence. Jim went, expecting a settlement, he says, but upon his arrival he was invited into the parlor and the door locked on him. He then stated that the demands were made upon him by the woman which made him blush like a pickled beet. Not relishing a settlement of his bill in the manner intimated, he rushed for the door, but being unable to escape in that manner, he scaled the window and leaped out into freedom. The affair created some excitement in the neighborhood, but it is just to state that Jim's part in the transaction is universally regarded as upright and honorable.

Sneak thieves are molesting our citizens somewhat, coming as they do generally when we are not prepared to give them so warm a reception as we would like. H. L. Morey's residence was infested the other evening, but no policeman could be found, either at the Station-house or on the street, they having all repaired to Cincinnati to "take in" the Convention.

Yesterday afternoon a four-horse team, belonging to Peter Schwab, while working on the Railroad Bridge at this point trying to recover some debris that had floated down and lodged, became so entangled that it was found necessary to cut the harness from all the horses in order to extricate them, but before they could cut them all loose one of the finest horses, valued at $300, sunk in deep water and was drowned. The others were all rescued safely. It appears that the noise of booming cannon had frightened the horses, and they became unmanageable.

We may add that the Dayton Accommodation, leaving at 6:45 a. m. and arriving at 5:35 p. m. via C., C. & I. Railroad, makes the same connections at Dayton as the trains leaving at 7:25 a. m. and arriving at 5 p. m. via C. H. & D. Railroad.
